

Americans deceiving selves about detente, says Solzhenitsyn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Exiled Russian author Alexander Solzhenitsyn cautions that Americans are deceiving themselves unless they realize that detente means hard-headed dealing with the Soviet Union, instead of merely "smiles and verbal concessions."

Calling on the United States to strengthen its role of world leadership, Solzhenitsyn declared Monday night that the Soviets are exploiting detente and luring Western capital to help build a regime committed to "ideological warfare."

The Nobel Prize-winning author, in his first formal address in this country, also urged that Americans renew their support for Soviet dissidents.

Referring to the official Kremlin line that such backing amounts to interference in internal Soviet affairs, Solzhenitsyn asserted, "Interfere more and more, interfere as much as you can."

Solzhenitsyn, imprisoned for eight years during Stalin's era, was forcibly expelled in early 1974 by Soviet authorities enraged over publication in the West of "The Gulag Archipelago," a massive study of the Soviet penal system.

Addressing an AFL-CIO dinner given in his honor, Solzhenitsyn said any real U.S.-Soviet detente must not be "based on smiles, not on verbal concessions, but it has to be based on firm foundations.... There has to be some guarantee that it will not be broken overnight."

Among the audience of some

2,500 persons at the dinner, mostly trade union officials, were Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, Labor Secretary John P. Dunlop and former Secretary of State William L. Rogers. Solzhenitsyn spoke in Russian.

The author contended that in current negotiations leading up to a major pact on security and cooperation in Europe, the Communist side has offered only superficial concessions on freer East-West exchange of people and ideas.

And he added, "During these two years of negotiations, the pressure has increased in all the countries of Eastern Europe."

Solzhenitsyn said that while his travels around the United States in recent weeks had shown him the nation's basic strengths and resources, he had also sensed some tendency to view crucial questions of foreign policy too distantly.

He said that despite setbacks in Southeast Asia and elsewhere, Americans must recognize that "the course of history, whether you like it or not, has brought you, has made you the leaders of the world."

PRESIDENT GERALD FORD
Confident economic decline is over

Ford, Meany clash on economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clashing head-on with the leader of the nation's largest labor organization, President Ford declared today that he is confident the economic decline is over.

But he warned that recovery must be based on sound economics — "or we stand in danger of setting off another massive rise in inflation, and even deeper recession and greater unemployment and hardship in the future."

Ford spoke to the 66th annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He was interrupted by applause only when he praised achievements of the NAACP. After his address, the President moved along the front of his audience shaking hands.

In a message to the convention, AFL-CIO President George Meany denounced the Ford administration's definition of recovery as "cruel and fraudulent."

Meany called for "a united voice of protest" against what he termed the administration's acceptance of continued high levels of unemployment.

"Instead of full employment and full production, the administration promises us an unemployment rate of 7.5 per cent for the next four years — and this it calls a recovery," Meany said.

Ford declared an unstable economy "the enemy of equal opportunity" and pledged to work with Congress to achieve job opportunities for all Americans.

But he said at the outset that he did not come to offer a check-list of specific programs and promises for blacks.

"I come as President of all the people to talk with you about common problems and common sense approaches — about what we can achieve together for America," Ford said.

The President ticked off several indicators that the economy is recovering, including a 2.2 per cent rise in retail sales during May.

He also cited a drop in the inflation rate, from 12 per cent in 1974 to less than 6 per cent today; falling interest rates and an increase in housing starts.

"Obviously some indicators will continue to be depressed for a few months, because they record only what is past," Ford said. "But I am confident the economic decline is over."

Meany declared that hard-won victories against the legal structures of racism can be "virtually neutralized by the disastrous economic policies of this administration."

"Thanks to these policies, one out of seven black workers is unemployed today and over 40 per cent of black teenagers are jobless. Government figures indicate that fully 25 million workers will experience unemployment in the course of this year," Meany said.

The jobless rate stood at 9.2 per cent during May. Ford has said that as government policies reduce the inflation rate, the nation may have to suffer higher unemployment than it would like.

Meany said the only answer to the plight of millions of black families "is a full-employment, full-production economy combined with diligent application of our civil rights laws."

He said the labor movement cannot and will not accept the administration's "cruel and fraudulent definition of recovery."

In the keynote address to the NAACP convention on Monday, Ford was called "indifferent and unresponsive to the humiliation and suffering that millions of Americans are enduring."

Margaret Bush Wilson, chairman of the board of the association, said Ford's vetoes of employment and housing bills have helped create a state of cynicism and despair among black Americans at a time when their difficulties have become more complex than ever.

Four oil companies boost gasoline prices

By The Associated Press
Four major oil companies announced gasoline price increases, effective today.

The Shell Oil Co. and Standard Oil of Indiana — Amoco — said they were raising wholesale gasoline prices by three cents a gallon, Atlantic Richfield Co. announced a two-cents-a-gallon increase, and Texaco Inc. said it was charging dealers 1.4-cents-a-gallon more for gas.

All three increases apply to all grades of gasoline, the companies said.

The wholesale price changes are expected to be passed on to customers by retailers. "Every Shell dealer will no doubt raise his pump prices by at least 3 cents a gallon, plus whatever the additional sales tax may be," said Max Victor, executive director of the New York Association of Service Stations.

Shell also announced a one-cent-a-gallon increase in distillate fuel prices and a 1/4-cent-per-gallon rise in jet fuel prices.

The oil companies say the increases reflect President Ford's additional dollar-a-gallon oil import tariff imposed June 1 as well as the cost increases not passed along to

Hills saved from firing squad and pardoned by Amin

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — President Idi Amin of Uganda announced today that he has decided to save British lecturer Denis Hills from a firing squad and pardon him.

Hills, 61 and a resident of Uganda for 11 years, was scheduled to be executed on Friday for calling Amin a village tyrant in an unpublished manuscript. Amin, who is on a 48-hour visit to the Zairean capital, made his decision known at a news conference at the end of talks with President Mobutu Sese Seko of Zaire.

The national news agency Zaire Presse said Amin changed his mind about Hills as the result of the mediation of Mobutu. The Zairean leader was one of the African heads of state who interceded with Amin.

Amin told reporters he would notify the British charge d'affaires in Kinshasa of his decision later today.

The Ugandan leader added that he had asked Mobutu to act as a mediator between himself and the British government for all British-Ugandan relations.

Amin had demanded that British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan travel to Uganda and negotiate with him to save Hills' life. Callaghan said he would not go under duress, but Queen Elizabeth II sent two military officers under whom Amin had once served in consumers last winter when demand for gasoline was low.

Industry analysts say the oil companies have stepped up production of gasoline at refineries around the country, and that spot shortages feared to occur this summer now may not materialize.

Thompson into governor's race with a blast at Gov. Walker

CHICAGO (AP) — James R. Thompson, accusing Gov. Daniel Walker of hit and run leadership, announced today his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Thompson, 39, resigned Monday as U.S. attorney, where in four years he built a reputation of fighting official and political corruption.

At a news conference, kicking off his campaign, Thompson promised an open and clean campaign.

He then flew off for a tour of Illinois, with stops at Rockford, Rock Island-Moline, Quincy, Peoria, Springfield, East St. Louis, Paducah, Ky., and

CHICAGO (AP) — Syndicated columnist Ann Landers, the problem solver for millions of American newspaper readers, says she and her husband of 36 years are getting divorced.

"The lady with all the answers does not know the answer to this one," the 57-year-old columnist said in today's column in her home newspaper, the Chicago Sun-Times.

The columnist, whose actual name is Esther Lederer, wrote: "The sad, incredible fact is that after 36 years of marriage Jules and I are being divorced. As I write these words, it is as if I am referring to a letter from a reader. It seems unreal that I am writing about my own marriage."

Mrs. Lederer, who writes for Field Newspapers Syndicate of Chicago, was married to her husband, Jules W. Lederer, on July 2, 1939. Until recently Lederer was chairman of the board of Budget Rent-A-Car Corp. in Chicago.

The columnist did not provide any reason for the divorce and asked readers not to write or call for details. Neither she nor her husband were immediately available for comment. The couple have a daughter, Margo, who formerly wrote a column for several Chicago newspapers.

In the 20 years she has written the column, several articles have centered upon the close relationship she has had with her husband. In 1969, a column celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary.

"That we are going our separate ways is one of life's strangest ironies. How did it happen that something so good for so long didn't last forever?" she said in the column.

Today's announcement, Mrs. Lederer wrote, was "the most difficult column I ever have written. But also it is the shortest."

About four inches of blank space followed the announcement "as a memorial to one of the world's best marriages that didn't make it to the finish line."

More than 700 newspapers carry the column with an estimated readership of 54 million persons in the United States. A recent Gallup Poll showed that she was one of the 20 most admired women in the nation.

Richard Sherry, president of the syndicate, said the column about the divorce was substituted on Monday for one mailed earlier to subscribers.

The new column was mailed from Chicago early Monday and newspapers should be receiving it by today, he said. It can be used upon receipt, he added.

$300,000 suit

OREGON — Damages of $300,000 are being sought in a personal injury suit filed here against Beard Painting and Decorating, and Raymond S. Beard.

The suit was filed in Ogle County Circuit Court by Lonzo Rosenbaum, an employee for Caron International, Rochelle, at the time of an accident on July 5, 1973.

Rosenbaum claims he tripped over a barricade erected by Beard, employed by Caron to complete a painting project.

The suit charges Beard with negligence for failing to place signs near the barricade warning of the danger. Rosenbaum suffered injuries to both knees, left hip and back as a result of the fall, the suit claims.

A jury trial was demanded.

Thompson into governor's race with a blast at Gov. Walker

CHICAGO (AP) — James R. Thompson, accusing Gov. Daniel Walker of hit and run leadership, announced today his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Thompson, 39, resigned Monday as U.S. attorney, where in four years he built a reputation of fighting official and political corruption.

At a news conference, kicking off his campaign, Thompson promised an open and clean campaign.

He then flew off for a tour of Illinois, with stops at Rockford, Rock Island-Moline, Quincy, Peoria, Springfield, East St. Louis, Paducah, Ky., and Champaign-Urbana.

Thompson promised during his campaign for the 1976 election that he would not lie to newsmen, that campaign contributions and expenditures would be an open book and that he will shortly release a statement of his personal finances.

He said he sees no need for any increase in the state income tax, but withheld comment on other taxes, saying he must assess the needs of government first.

"We need solid accomplishment and not divisive rancor," Thompson said. "We need politics to make government work, and not politics for its own sake."

Thompson called for a close partnership between the executive and legislative branches of state government and "not a hit and run relationship. We need government of conciliation and unity; not confrontation and intrigue."

Thompson said he is starting the campaign without any contributions or promises of money.

The Hatch Act prohibits a federal official from engaging in political work. Therefore, Thompson said he was unable to develop political plans before resigning from his federal job.

He said he has been told he may need as much as $2 million to make a successful run for the governorship, a figure "astounding to me."

Thompson, however, said "Nobody who gives me a penny will get anything else from me except my promise to be the best governor I can. He said the campaign will spend what it raises and there will be no deficit at its end."

Until his campaign gets off the ground, Thompson is joining the Chicago law firm, Winston & Strawn, at a salary of $50,000 a year.

"If I see any problems of conflict of interest, I'll ask the firm to take me out of it."

Types of parties

One type is the Kennedy-McGovern leadership, which call themselves liberals, but you know they are socialistic, with state control of business and people.

Rockefeller, Ford, Kissinger are the type who spend the taxpayers into bankruptcy, which brings on state control. The Council of Foreign Relations (CFR), who guide these people, are working for a one-world government. Communize America, join Russia and China, then they have what they want.

The other type is made up of conservatives, people who want to do as they please without harming anyone else. These people are the middle class, the working, the responsible, honest business leaders who believe in patriotism for their country. Also, the bewildered conservatives who have been misled by lying politicians for the last 50 years. They want freedom and are willing to fight for liberty of all Americans so their children can live a normal life.

All these Americans desire a new party. They are dissatisfied with both the Democrat and Republican conduct of spending so much unnecessary money locally and foreign.

The mortgage of welfare is now due. The hardship on the lower income workers from inflation caused by the voting records of Congress should be stopped. They have created a vast bureaucracy that keeps expanding. Every week they propose new committees that do more harm to citizens than good.

Among many top Kissinger appointees to high public office was Helmut Sonnenfeldt, who was a major culprit in helping the Russians to buy large shipments of grain at low prices, and was caught passing top secret information to a foreign power. The FBI recommended prosecution. When the House Internal Security Committee took notice of this and other suspicious Kissinger appointees and began to check the report that Kissinger himself is a KGB agent, the committee was abolished in a back room coup by pro-communist congressmen.

Citizens are regulated and controlled and taxed. Business is driven into bankruptcy and then nationalized. This gives the politicians more patronage of jobs to hand out, which they use to gain votes.

Welfare programs weaken the nation, which then cannot compete in international trade. Whereas, if government could be reduced to just the necessary amount to maintain order, business would improve, unemployment would disappear, people would be happy.

For help, do not turn to government for they will always try to sell you the wrong way to do things.

Believe in God and yourself and be responsible for what you do. Seek freedom and the opportunity to build your own life in the best way that you desire.

Let all freedom loving people join in building a new party or the American Party that has character and integrity.

AID leaves booty behind

By RONALD REAGAN

On June 30, the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID), our dispenser of foreign aid, folded its tent and silently stole away from Laos, leaving the tent (and all its other property) to the new Pathet Lao Communist government which wants U.S. aid money to continue flowing, but with no strings attached.

Although opposition to the Pathet Lao collapsed more swiftly—after a decade of tug-of-war—than even the Pathet Lao expected, the new regime hasn't wasted any time consolidating its position.

For years the Laotian cabinet had been a delicately balanced coalition of leftists, rightists and "neutrals," kept glued together by neutralist Prime Minister Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Shortly after Saigon fell, though, Pathet Lao "rent-a-crowds" (as one European diplomat describes them) began demonstrating in Vientiane for the removal of rightist members of the cabinet. Most of them got the message very quickly and took off for Thailand.

Since the emigres were mostly generals and represented whatever military leadership the right wing had, the Pathet Lao rushed in to fill the vacuum. Its army, with North Vietnamese well-integrated into it (right down to the company level), made a show of strength to intimidate hitherto rightist towns in southern Laos and the bloodless takeover was, indeed, over.

The street demonstrators, meanwhile, stormed the AID offices in Vientiane, occupying them and taking hostages. To end the occupation and win the release of the hostages, U.S. officials had to agree to pull AID out of Laos entirely, along with its 200 American employees (it also employed 2,500 Laotians).

The Pathet Lao wants to not quite kill the goose, for they like those golden eggs it produces. Now, they want U.S. aid ($32 million this fiscal year) "direct and unconditional." In other words, a blank check. It's no wonder they want the money: the United States is Laos' largest donor by far and this aid keeps the local currency afloat. Without it, the Laotian economy will be in real trouble.

Those arguing for continuation of our aid on Pathet Lao terms contend it will help maintain a tiny U.S. foothold in Indochina, but close observers of the scene believe the "foothold" will produce no tangible benefits and no leverage over the Pathet Lao.

Removal of AID will probably result in the Laotians breaking off diplomatic relations with the United States, but in the wake of the fall of Cambodia and South Vietnam, that will scarcely be a catastrophe.

As long as we're dispensing foreign aid, we'd better turn our attention to allies who need it, such as South Korea, and forget Laos. Perhaps the Pathet Lao can float a loan with their allies, the North Vietnamese.

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)— President Ford has discovered no sure course out of the recession. Only hope. And no way to prevent the inflation expected to follow—except stringency.

He has no program for increasing productivity yet low productivity pushed prices skyward and triggered the recession.

Trends indicate that major inefficiencies—and outright obsolescence in wide areas of U.S. industry—will once again in 1976 and '77 drive costs to new and intolerable heights. Mr. Ford has done little more than toy with this problem. But it could spur another recession.

Mr. Ford likewise has given little thought to easing shortages—except the energy shortage which he proposes to solve by classical economics. That is, he aims at creating such mammoth artificial oil and gasoline scarcities, and such high prices, that all of us individually will be forced in desperation to find our own solutions.

Even so, Mr. Ford is so mesmerized by this one shortage that he ignores a host of others which most certainly will be more immediate in their effects.

By late 1975 perhaps—and most

No course through inflation seas certainly 1976 and 1977—the lack of sufficient processing plants for a dozen basic metals, alloys and other semiprocessed raw materials will be apparent.

The next inflation, if it comes, will be the result of shortages. Shortages will cause industrial and commercial users to bid prices up—these higher costs being passed on, of course, to the consumer.

Though industry today is plagued by bad management—and weak management—the problem is broader. By his inaction, Mr. Ford has indirectly given support to the thesis that profits are somehow bad, a philosophy which discourages investment in more efficient plants and the expansion necessary to meet future demand and to significantly reduce unemployment. Instead, in such an atmosphere companies hire more lobbyists to build closer contacts with the administration and Congress, hoping to share in whatever government-sponsored business there is. They hope to hold on to what private business they have, retrenching rather than expanding.

It is true that Mr. Ford has pushed through some income tax breaks. Welcome, to be sure, but the type of quickie relief which disappears overnight. When the money is gone, we're back at the same stand. Those who have no money can't spend it. Those who have it are so worried about tomorrow they don't want to spend.

It is also true that Mr. Ford has given some private advice to Arthur Burns, chief of the Federal Reserve System. Mr. Ford, quite rightly, wants Burns to expand the money supply at a faster rate. But the advice has been so weak that Burns has gone his untroubled way, and the money for expansion or modernization at reasonable rates remains difficult to get.

No one is certain anymore what tinkering with the money supply does in the end. Burns himself is skeptical of its effectiveness when it is depended on as virtually the only program for curing a recession one day and inflation the next—or both at once.

It should be said in all fairness that Mr. Ford's economic approach, weak as it is, is no worse than that of the last half dozen presidents. The majority voice in Congress is worse. Despite talk of a new idealism on Capitol Hill, the prevalent philosophy in the Senate and House, apparently, is spend and spend and elect and elect, a tune quite familiar to corrupt ward healers.

War over; deceit lingers

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON (NEA)— When the final defeat of American policy in Southeast Asia became absolutely apparent, a newsman tried without success to solicit comments from the architects of that policy.

McGeorge Bundy was "occupied"; Robert McNamara did "not wish to talk about it"; Melvin Laird was out of the country; Dean Rusk would not return phone calls; William Westmoreland made himself "unavailable to reporters."

Since then, some of the men have by force of events and persistence of inquiry surrendered to public questions—but only to kick and complain. General Westmoreland says a U.S. victory was stolen by "uninformed" domestic peace elements. Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk insists the collapse of South Vietnam was the consequence of a withdrawal of support by the American people. None have admitted personal error, none have so much as raised small doubts of judgments long ago. To the end and beyond, the people who designed the ear are either silent or hostile. Instead of self criticism they continue with self deception.

It is perhaps too much to expect public men to confess great errors. Clark Clifford, one-time defense secretary under Lyndon Johnson, and one of the few elevated Vietnam planners to renounce the affair, says his unrepentant former colleagues would rather spite than switch, miraculous vindication being the last hope of such foolishness. This, he adds, is what kept the war raging in the first place: The unwillingness of high political and military officials to first admit, then learn from their mistakes.

For his part, Clifford, now a Washington attorney, began realizing the emptiness of the U.S. cause in Vietnam at about the same time many private Americans were arriving at the same conclusion—late 1967, early 1968. "Before then, the conventional wisdom was that Vietnam presented the United States with the threat of monolithic communism spreading from Hanoi to Saigon, throughout Southeast Asia, and perhaps down to Australia and even to California. Most Americans believed this. You'll recall the Tonkin Gulf resolution passed 504 to 2 in congress—504 to 2."

But though popular opinion changed, government opinion did not. Clifford says Johnson gave up the subterfuge in his speech of March 1968, announcing in effect a military victory over the Communists was not possible. Yet his successor, Richard Nixon, refused to believe it. "I hoped desperately that Nixon would profit from the past, I even thought for a while he would. But he didn't. Not a bit. And even until just recently, when it became obvious everything was over in Southeast Asia, government officers continued to hope for miracles and for that vindication."

And so this perhaps is the most far reaching and ominous of all the Vietnam era sadness, the inability of recent leaderships to confront or admit reality. It is only an error in judgment to make mistakes, as author Christian Bovee wrote last century, but it shows infirmity of character to adhere to it when discovered. This infirmity of character on high cost the nation beyond measure during Vietnam, and now, given the continued recalcitrance of Vietnam mongers, it may go on costing long after.

The mongers, to be sure, will pay anything. The elite always saves itself from itself. After sending 2.5 million American men to fight and sacrifice for nothing in Asia, McGeorge Bundy has been made president of the Ford Foundation, Bob McNamara has become head of the World Bank, Dean Rusk is now a distinguished college professor. As they profit, though, the nation they deceived continues to be weakened by the worry that others like them may even now be guiding America into muck just as deep.

Sen. Tom McIntyre (D-N.H.) said the other day that the people "deserve the Establishment's admission it was wrong" concerning Vietnam. More than this, the people need and must have that admission. Else suspicion and resentment and division will grow as the public sees, after all, there is only more darkness at the end of this tunnel.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, July 1, the 182nd day of 1975. There are 183 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1867, the Dominion of Canada was created by the British North America Act.

On this date:
In 1862, the U.S. Congress established the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

In 1863, the Civil War Battle of Gettysburg began.

In 1881, the American Red Cross was incorporated, with Clara Barton as president.

In 1898, Theodore Roosevelt and his Rough Riders carried out a victorious assault on San Juan Hill in Cuba in the Spanish-American war.

In 1958, construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway was completed.

In 1966, the Medicare health program for elderly Americans went into effect.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson asked Congress for $140 million to speed up development of an American supersonic airliner.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon named a veteran diplomat, David Bruce, to head the U.S. delegation to Vietnam peace talks in Paris.

One year ago: Argentine

President Juan Peron died in Buenos Aires at the age of 78.
Today's birthdays: Actor James Cagney is 71 years old. Actress Olivia de Havilland is 59.

Thought for today: Keep an open mind and be receptive to modern ideas — Jawaharlal Nehru, Indian nationalist leader, 1889-1964.

Bicentennial footnote: It was 200 years ago today that the Continental Congress in Philadelphia resolved to enter into alliances with Indian tribes to counter British use of Indians to help keep the rebellious American Colonies in line.

Thought for today

We intend that no one should blame us about this liberal gift which we are administering, for we aim at what is honorable not only in the Lord's sight but also in the sight of men. —II Cor. 8:20, 21.

"You don't have to preach honesty to men with creative purpose. Let a human being throw the engines of his soul into the making of something, and the instinct of workmanship will take care of his honesty." —Walter Lippmann, American journalist.

Early on June 17, 1775, the quiet morning air around Charles-town Heights, near Boston, was shattered by the roar of broadsides from H.M.S. Lively. The British were firing on the American redoubts built on Breed's pasture, the lower portion of Bunker Hill. In their three assaults on Breed's Hill, the 2,500 British regulars suffered 1,964 casualties including 226 killed. The 1,400 Minutemen suffered about 450 casualties with 140 dead. Misnamed the Battle of Bunker Hill, this first full-scale action of the Revolution ended in defeat for the Americans, but it undoubtedly convinced the British that they were in for a long and difficult struggle. The World Almanac recalls.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-602: Tom W., aged 55, is a wealthy factory owner. "But he is a real tightwad," one of his junior executives said, as we conversed at a Kiwanis luncheon I was to address.

"Why do you think he is so stingy?" I asked.

"Well, though he is a millionaire," his employee replied, "he now refuses to patronize the restaurant where he formerly dined each noon."

"And do you know why? Well, because they recently stopped giving a free second cup of coffee with their luncheons!"

"Besides, he drives several miles extra to a certain gas station just because he can get gasoline 2 cents a gallon cheaper than at the station nearer his home."

"Why should he quibble over a few cents or even a few dollars when he is so wealthy?"

Business And Baseball

If wealthy Tom, the industrialist, were to engage in a company baseball contest, should he thus show little interest in making a base hit when it was his turn at the plate?

Just because he is a millionaire, should that destroy his zest for winning the baseball game?

"Certainly not," his employee admitted.

So I explained that business is just as much a game as baseball, golf, football or any other athletic contest.

And a man's wealth has nothing to do with his attempt to make a base hit to win the game!

This analogy should be stressed in all our public schools, for millions of workers, including many union heads, make the fallacy of considering brilliant business geniuses and corporation heads as skin-flints or misers and tightwads, just because they are still struggling for what we call a 'base hit' in the game of business!

For 'profits' are the 'base hits' of business under our superb American 'free enterprise' system of playing the game.

Like the splendid 'bargain hunting' of you modern housewives, the zest of shopping consists of saving a few cents on a jar of peanut butter or a gallon of milk or a loaf of bread.

That's why shrewd housewives shop around from one store to another, looking for the marked down bargains or the low priced 'leaders' that stores often sell at cost just to bring women into their stores.

The store managers thus figure if they can get the women inside the front door via that 'leader,' then they may sell the women enough extra merchandise to offset their loss on the 'leader.'

Would that we had more of our frugal modern housewives in the U.S. Congress, where profligate boondoggling wastes our hard earned taxes on world give-aways, as well as bribery for votes in our large cities!

Tom, the manufacturer, actually was a generous donor to church and civic organizations.

And he conducted an ethical business, wherein he got his deserved wealth by looking for 'base hits' in the business game.

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., who built up the vast Rockefeller millions, was once criticized for walking three city blocks to buy a pair of suspenders.

"Why should I pay six cents more for the same thing at a nearby store?" he defended himself.

"That six cents is the rent for an entire year on a dollar if you try to borrow it from a bank!"

So the Rockefellers' present billion is now a result of 'base hits' in the game of business which John D. relished making long ago!

Abbott-Webb marriage ceremony

Marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Noel Abbott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott, and Eugene Joseph Webb, son of Mrs. Helen Webb, during a Nuptial Mass performed recently in St. Patrick's Catholic Church by the Rev. William Schussler, assistant pastor of the church.

Music for the double-ring ceremony was provided by Crawford Thomas, organist, and James Wiltz, vocalist, and decorations included altar bouquets of blue and white daisies flanked by lighted candles.

Organza Gown

For her wedding, the bride was attired in an empire gown of white organza trimmed with sequins and Chantilly lace. The gown's floor-length skirt, accented by a detachable chapel train, was topped by an empire bodice featuring a wedding-ring lace collar and bishop sleeves. Her cathedral-length illusion mantilla was edged with scalloped lace, and as she was escorted to the altar by her father, she carried a ribbon-trimmed nosegay of white daisies and roses, lilies of the valley and blue-tinted baby's breath.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Gerald Withrow, was the bride's matron of honor, and attendants were Mrs. Rick Lowe and Miss Cindy Swinton. Their identical gowns of white cotton eyelet, designed and made by the bride, were fashioned with short sleeves and hemline ruffles entwined with pastel-blue ribbon. Matching ribbons trimmed their blue picture hats, and they carried colonial bouquets of white and blue daisies, lilies of the valley and baby's breath.

A similar costume was worn with a floral headpiece by the flower girl, Miss Jennifer Drew, niece of the bride, and blue and white daisies filled the white basket she carried.

Gerald Withrow was his brother-in-law's best man; Paul Withrow and Rick Lowe served as groomsmen, and wedding guests were ushered by Kevin Evans, Normal, and the bride's brother, Vaughn Abbott. The bride's nephew, Kenneth Drew, carried the rings on a pillow of white satin and lace made by the bride.

A reception in the Nachusa House Trail Room followed the service when the bride's sister, Mrs. Lynn Drew, served a five-tiered wedding cake topped by an arch formed of cupids, flowers and bells. Coffee and punch were poured by Mrs. Jan Coppotelli, and presiding at the gift table was Miss Sheri Heather, the bride's sister, Miss Amy Abbott, and Miss Mary Kaye Withrow, niece of the bridegroom, registered guests.

Live in Normal

Since their wedding trip to St. Louis, Mo., and Six Flags Over Mid-America, the newlyweds have been residing in Normal, where Mr. Webb is enrolled at Illinois State University and is also employed as assistant director of recreation at the Soldiers and Sailors Home for Children.

Members of the bridal party were guests of the bridegroom's mother at a rehearsal dinner in the Nachusa House, and parties honoring the bride preceding her marriage included a miscellaneous shower hosted by the bridegroom's mother and his sister, Mrs. Withrow, in Loveland Community House, and a linen shower arranged by the honoree's sister, Mrs. Aivah Drew Jr.

Dear Ann by Ann Landers

A Sad and Personal Message

Dear Readers: In my 20 years as Ann Landers this is the most difficult column I have ever tried to put together.

I do so after many hours of soul-searching. Should it be written at all? Would it be appropriate? Would it be fair? I have decided yes — because you, my readers, are also my friends. I owe it to you to say something. There should be some word directly from me.

The sad, incredible fact is that after 36 years of marriage Jules and I are being divorced. As I write these words, it is as if I am referring to a letter from a reader. It seems unreal that I am writing about my own marriage.

Many of you may remember the column that appeared in 1969. It was in honor of our 30th wedding anniversary. You may also recall the column I wrote when my beloved mother-in-law, Gustie Lederer, passed away. On both occasions I gave you some intimate glimpses of our life together. Thousands of readers were kind enough to write and say they considered those columns my best.

Every word that appeared in those columns as true when I wrote them, and very little that was said then could not be said today — in complete honesty.

Jules is an extraordinary man. His nickname for me was "The Queen." He was loving, supportive and generous. He is still all those things — and I will always cherish our wonderful years together.

That we are going our separate ways is one of life's strangest ironies. How did it happen that something so good for so long didn't last forever? The lady with all the answers does not know the answer to this one.

Perhaps there is a lesson there for all of us. At least, it is there for me. "Never say, 'It couldn't happen to us!'"

Please, don't write or call and ask for details. The response would be, "Sorry, this is a personal matter..." Time will not alter my position. I shall continue to say, "No comment." There will be no compromising... no exceptions. Just wish us both well.

Not only has this been the most difficult column I ever have written, but also it is the shortest. I apologize to my editors for not giving you my money's worth today. I ask that you not fill this space with other letters. Please leave it blank — as a memorial to one of the world's best marriages that didn't make it to the finish line.

Mary Greene's Chocolate Cake

Our recipe tester contributes a recipe she makes at home.

2 cups flour, stir to aerate before measuring

2 cups sugar

1 cup water

8-ounce container sour cream

1/4 cup butter or margarine, softened

1/2 teaspoon baking powder

1/4 teaspoon baking soda

1 teaspoon salt

2 eggs

1 teaspoon vanilla

4 squares (4 ounces) unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled

Into a large mixing bowl turn all the ingredients in the order given. With electric mixer at low speed and scraping bowl constantly, beat 1/2 minute; at high speed, beat 3 minutes longer, scraping bowl often. Turn into two greased and floured 9-inch round layercake pans. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 30 to 35 minutes. Turn out on wire racks; cool. Fill and frost as desired.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

You'll be lucky today with social contacts, but you could generate sparks with a business associate or on the home front.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Idea others try to impose upon you today aren't necessarily in your best interests. Do things the way you feel they should be done.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Continue to treat your purse with respect today. Stay abreast of your current obligations. Avoid making new ones.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

You'll fare better in commercial dealings today if you bar those who have no business being there. Deal only with those involved.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Though your motives will be honorable today, one who likes to make problems will try to distort your intent.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

If you want others to share, you'll first have to put on the line some of what you're holding back.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

You'll be involved in a venture with two friends. Each will pull in a different direction. You may end up with a giraffe, instead of a horse.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

If working with unfamiliar materials, be extra-careful. Test your procedures as you go. You could be very wasteful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

Usually you can count on Lady Luck to bail you out of tight spots. Today, she isn't all that reliable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Polly's Pointers

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — My husband built too hot a fire in our fire place so scorched the brass fireplace screen. Can anything be done to return this tarnished look to a brass color? Is there a spray paint that could be used for this? I thought there might be a heat-resistant paint with a brass finish. I would certainly appreciate some help. — MURLINE.

DEAR MURLINE — I would NOT use any sort of paint with brass look on the screen. The effect would be cheap even if it covered the scorch. Scour the blackened part with a nonabrasive household cleanser until all the soot disappears. That may require quite a bit of scouring. Then use a good brass polish according to the directions. This is what I have always used on andirons and other brass fireplace equipment that has blackened. As a last resort, and before ever considering painting, take it to a professional who cleans brass and copper and have it cleaned, polished and then lacquered for future protection. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those who do not try to control the actions of their children. Today while waiting at the checkout counter with my 16-month-old son, all of a sudden a little boy in the next line came over and tried to slap my baby in the face. The mother of the child just laughed as though it was cute but I think it was inconsiderate. I do not want to have to teach my child to be a bully, as that child obviously is, just so he can protect himself. — SHARON R.

DEAR SHARON R. — I agree with you and think so much parental permissiveness can be the cause of trouble later. This child is the one who is going to suffer the most from such actions. I do not think I could have resisted having a word with the child before sending him back to his mother. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — When knitting the back of a sweater I always ended up with so many stitches on the needle that I was afraid to lay the work down for fear some would slip off. I discovered that a plastic foam thread spool jammed on to the end of the full needle holds the stitches on. Hope this helps some other fledgling knitter. — MRS. W. W.

DEAR POLLY — To scrub a pan or clean the oven clip a snap clothespin on to the scrubbing pad and hold on to it to save your nails and manicure. — MRS. R. H.

DEAR POLLY — When the straps on a baby's crawler suit get too short cut them off, fold the bib to the inside, stitch it down and have a pair of pull-on pants that will last for a long time. — MRS. M. T.

DEAR POLLY — When I have a bouquet of freshly cut pussy willows I never put water in the vase. Without water the twigs and furry gray catkins will dry to perfection and can then be stored carefully in a box for use again another season. — BETTY.

In the language of bids a reverse bid should always show extra strength. More important you and your partner should know just what a reverse bid is.

We define it as any bid of a new suit that shuts out a return to an earlier bid suit at the lowest possible level. We recommend that a reverse bid by opener be a one-round force and guarantee at least 16 points; a reverse by responder be a game force and show at least 13 points. For the rest of this week we will show reverse bids at work.

South's two-heart bid was a classic reverse call. North would have to return to clubs at the three level if he wanted to bid clubs. As it was, North bid three hearts and South settled for game.

He managed to make six due to the very even way his opponents cards were divided. He ducked the first diamond, won the second one, cashed ace-king of clubs, ruffed a club, played dummy's king and jack of hearts and overtook with his queen after East played the 10.

Then he ruffed his last diamond played ace and another spade, ruffed it, drew the last trump and made the last two tricks with small clubs.

June wedding vows for Miss Racin, Mr. Lazaris

Miss Stephanie Racin, daughter of Mrs. Jean Berry Racin, Morgantown, W. Va., and Dr. John Racin, Westover, W. Va., became the bride of Nicholas Lazaris, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lazaris, Rosemont, formerly of Dixon, in an outdoor ceremony held June 14 at Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass.

The nondenominational wedding, performed by the Rev. David John Waite Yohn, pastor of West Parish Congregational Church, West Barnstable, Mass., was followed by a reception in the TZE House on the Wellesley College campus.

The bride's maid of honor was Miss Denise Noonan, her college roommate, and Miss Mary Ann Racin, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid. Christos Lazaris was his brother's best man, and Nathaniel Butler served as groomsman.

The new Mrs. Lazaris, a graduate of Morgantown High School, received a B.A. degree from Wellesley College in 1972, and she earned a law degree in June at Boston University School of Law. In September, she will join the law firm of Spilman, Thomas, Battle and Klostermeyer in Charleston, W. Va., where she will specialize in taxation and general corporate law.

A graduate of Dixon High School, Mr. Lazaris earned a B.S. degree in 1972 at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass., and he received an M.B.A. degree in June at the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration. He will become a member of the international accounting firm, Ernst and Ernst, Charleston, W. Va., in September.

Following a wedding trip to Europe, the newlyweds will reside in Charleston.

Home Extension News

By FRANCES REEVERTS
Lee Co. Home Adviser
Keep a vacation safe to keep it fun.

A highway accident, a lost hiker or a bad sunburn can be especially bad when you are miles from home and friends, says Frances Reeverts, Lee County Extension Adviser.

To keep the vacation safe, Frances Reeverts advises that you:

—Check your car to eliminate unnecessary highway breakdowns. Don't forget tire pressure, windshield wipers and lights. Flares, a flashlight, first-aid kit, sunglasses, duplicate keys and current insurance information should also be packed. Is the spare tire good? Does the jack work?

—Plan ahead. Mark your route on a map and have a co-pilot call out turns and expressway exits well in advance.

Change drivers every two hours. During the peak of the vacation season, Frances Reeverts suggests making advance reservations for the night. Plan safe games and activities for the children to keep them busy on long trips.

—Stick together. Never go hiking or boating alone. The buddy system is especially important in swimming areas. Keep an eye on your children while they swim. Be especially alert with floating toys and air mattresses; wind can quickly blow them into deep water. It takes three people to safely water ski—the skier, the boat pilot and someone else in the boat to watch the skier.

—Don't try to show off. You'll lose points instead of gaining them if you dive into shallow water or over-exert yourself hiking so much the first day that you're grounded the following two.

Don't underestimate the sun. Best times for tanning are before 10 a.m. and after 3 p.m. Around noon, limit sun exposure to 15 minutes, Frances Reeverts continues.
You cannot eliminate all accidents. But planning ahead can reduce the number and make you better prepared for the others, Frances Reeverts concludes.

American consumers who are seeking home canning lids are being asked to buy only what they need for this canning season, and not to hoard.

Mrs. Nancy Harvey Steorts, special assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture for Consumer Affairs, reports that periodic checks of manufacturers of home canning equipment indicate they are working at full capacity to provide a sufficient number of lids to meet anticipated demand.

Also, consumers should note that supplies are being allocated only to those retail outlets that have normally carried home canning supplies in the past.

Mrs. Steorts says that while the anticipated supply situation is a tight one, it still appears that if home canners buy just what they need, there will be enough for everyone.

Some home canners in the northeast have expressed concern about the lack of lids in their part of the country, Mrs. Steorts said. She urged them not to worry. Lid makers are distributing lids to various parts of the country as crops come in, she explained. When the crop is ready in the northeast, lids will be available, she said.

Let's Talk About Decorating

By Karleen Bensinger
Furnishing a Small Room? HERE'S HOW.

The population explosion and the high cost of materials and labor have brought about a trend toward the smaller family home. Gone are the large, rambling homes of the past with their marvelously spacious rooms. The smaller rooms in today's homes can cause decorating problems for the modern homemaker. Here are some tips on how to make that small room look more spacious.

Light walls create an airy background and make a room seem larger than it really is. Keep drapery treatments simple and avoid a great deal of color contrast in draperies, carpeting and large furniture pieces. Wall-to-wall carpeting always seems to stretch a room's apparent dimensions as does furniture that's size is in scale with the size of the room. Purchase TV and stereo cabinets on legs. This alleviates the heavy, "attached to the floor" look which tends to shrink a room. Consider a small sofa or a love seat. Or, how about a pair of love seats placed in a corner arrangement? Avoid a cluttered look that will dwarf your room.

Motorcyclist hurt in tumble

OREGON — A Calumet City, Ind., man riding a trail bike at a farm east of Shannon was injured Monday. Undergoing treatment this morning at Freeport Memorial Hospital was John B. Lamadeleine, 29. According to Ogle County Sheriff's Police, Lamadeleine applied the front hand brakes after spotting a hole in the ground ahead. The front wheel locked and he was thrown over the handle bars and onto the ground, where he slid 20 feet. Police said his face was severely bruised in the fall. The accident occurred on the David Gantz farm.

Hurt as car leaves road

OREGON — A rural Chana woman was injured Monday in a single-car accident on Water Road, one mile south of Honeycreek Road. Taken to Rockford Memorial Hospital for treatment was Linda L. Bolhouse, 36. According to Ogle County Sheriff's Police, Bolhouse was traveling south when her auto left the pavement and struck a road sign. The car traveled 225 feet before coming to rest. The accident remains under investigation.

Youthful driver given ticket

Kelly L. Gallagher, 16, 101 Spring St., was ticketed by police for failure to yield following a Monday afternoon accident. Gallagher stopped at a stop sign on Ottawa Avenue. She then proceeded into the intersection of East Seventh Street, where her car struck the west-bound car of Brent J. Ehresman, 23, 526 Jackson Ave. Neither driver was injured.

Petunia Happenings

Foot stompers for beer garden

Donkey baseball will once again be a part of the Dixon Petunia Festival. On Friday, at 7:30, Farley Appliance will collide with the Petunia City All-American All-Stars at A. C. Bowers Field.

The name Farley's Appliance is well known to all who follow slo-pitch softball. They are the defending champions in the Wednesday Night League. This year they are sporting a record of 40 wins, 8 losses; took second place in the Dixon Memorial Day Tournament; and, more recently, won the Sublette Tournament.

The lineup for Farley's includes: Dave Lennox, Dave Love, Pat Love, Brad Kipping, Terry Shroyer, Rick Shroyer, Don Lebre, Jim Montavon, Roger Hill, Ron Semitis, Ron Smith, Jerry Farley, Steve Teranova, Denny Kessel, Lanny Wakely, and Eddie Fritts.

The Petunia City All-American All-Stars are a recently formed group which will be making its debut with this game. The lineup boasts such notables as: Mayor William Naylor, John Edmunds, Tom Densmore, Lenny Ingrassia, Walt Lohse, Dr. Joe Bone, Dick Battles, Herb Jennings, Dick Boyer, and Chuck Vail.

An unofficial, but usually reliable source, states that negotiations are not yet complete with several players. Additional members are expected to bolster the roster by game time.

The source further pointed out that the PCAAAS will rely on the experience of veterans Boyer, Vail, and Jennings. Dick Boyer, winning pitcher in a 1972 Petunia Festival Donkey Ball Game, is without question the winningest pitcher in the area and sports a very impressive 1.00 ERA.

Schaumberg corps to appear here

The Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps of Schaumberg will appear fifth in competition at the Petunia Festival Drum and Bugle Corps Competition on Sunday. Numbering more than 150 members from the Chicago northwest suburbs, the corps has been in competition throughout the United States since 1964.

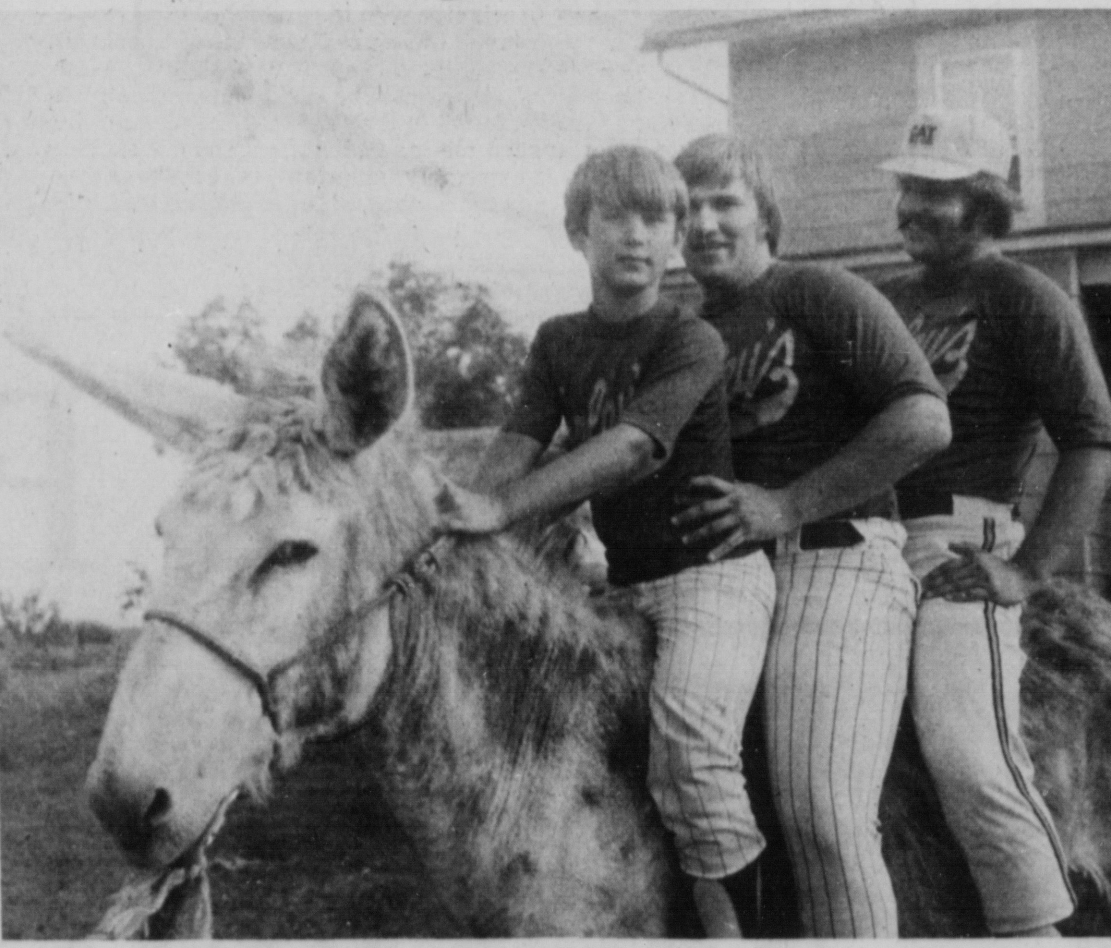

Jill Anne Fulton, daughter of former Dixonites Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fulton, is a member of the Guardsmen rifle squad. Although the Fultons now reside in Wheeling, Jill is a frequent visitor in the homes of Dixon relatives Mrs. Harold Schertner and Mr. and Mrs. Carl McCarter. Jill formerly attended Washington School.

Historical book to mayor

Pictured above is the "Greater DeKalb Area Municipal Foot Stompin' Ensemble" scheduled to appear at the Petunia Festival Beer Garden from 6 to 10 p.m. Sunday. Since the above picture was taken a fifth member has been added to the group. These talented young performers offer an excellent variety of musical numbers, including yodeling, polkas and good time music for your dancing and listening pleasure. Entertainment at the beer garden will be continuous Sunday evening with the "Chord Session," a strolling barbershop quartet, providing the entertainment during band breaks at 7, 8 and 9 p.m.

Food stamp boost into effect

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois Department of Public Aid Director James L. Trainor has announced increases in the food stamp coupon allotments and the maximum allowable income for all participants in the Food Stamp Program, effective today.

Trainor said the allotment increases are based on the cost of the USDA economy food plan as it is computed from Bureau of Labor statistics food prices. Accordingly, USDA will raise the value of the coupon allotment from $154 to $162 for a family of four and make appropriate adjustments for other household sizes.

Coupon allotment amounts by family size starting July 1 are: One, $48; two, $90; three, $128; four, $162; five, $192; six, $222; seven, $250; eight, $278; nine, $300.

For each additional household member over nine, add $22 to the nine-person amount.

Maximum allowable income standards by family size starting July 1 are: One, $215; two, $300; three, $427; four, $540; five, $640; six, $740; seven, $833; eight, $926; nine, $999.

For each additional household member over nine, add $73 to the nine-person eligibility level.

Persons who wish additional information about Food Stamp program should contact the local Illinois Department of Public Aid office.

Two drivers are charged

State police arrested two area drivers Monday night.

Jerry Freeman, 24, Nachusa was charged with driving while his license was suspended. He was stopped on Ill. 38 just east of Nachusa.

Theodore Wisniewski, 52, Rt. 4, was stopped by state police Monday evening on Lost Nation Blacktop.

Wisniewski was charged with speeding and fleeing or attempting to elude a police officer.

The two were released on bond pending court dates later this month.

Burglary is probed

Shirley Fischer of the Strip Joint, 224 Dodge St., reported that a burglary occurred there over the weekend.

Entry was believed to have been forced through a south window at the building. An antique platform rocker valued at $150 was taken. Dixon police are investigating the matter.

Liquor charge against youth

Brian Love, 18, 622 Squires Ave., was arrested Monday night on a charge of misrepresentation of age to purchase liquor as a minor.

Love was apprehended by police at Imperial Liquor Store at Grant City. He was released on bond pending a July 17 court date.

Charge dismissed

Deceptive practice charges against John N. Cledon, 45, Dixon, were dismissed Monday after Cledon made restitution.

Cledon was charged with issuing a bad check in the amount of $50 to Stony Point Lounge Dec. 22. He was arrested by sheriff's deputies May 25.

Lung mobile exhibit will visit Dixon

The Illinois Lung Association animated educational exhibit on smoking will be available in downtown Dixon on Saturday and Sunday of this week. The 27-foot mobile unit accommodates groups of eight persons at one time and presents an animated message which, while intended for school smoking education programs for children, proves beneficial to adults as well.

Physicians and health educators alike agree that the promotion of a healthy attitude in young people is probably the most important step in the

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Mary Clarke

OREGON — Mrs. Mary E. Clarke, 79, 730 Park Ave., Beloit, Wis., and formerly of Oregon, died Sunday at Beloit Memorial Hospital following a short illness.

She was born April 29, 1896, in Taylor Township, Ogle County, the daughter of William and Sarah (Dwight) Mackay, and was married to Dr. R. L. Clark at Oregon in Nov. 1946. Mrs. Clarke was in Oregon and Loves Park resident prior to moving to Beloit five years ago. She was also a member of the Rockford Women's Club.

Her husband and one sister preceded her in death.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Donald (Dolores) Hansen, Beloit, Wis.; one granddaughter; two great-grandchildren, and one brother, Dwight, Oregon.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 4 p.m. in Farrell Funeral Home with the Rev. R. James Reid, pastor of United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery. There will be no visitation.

A memorial has been established to United Methodist Church, Oregon.

Harold Good

OREGON — Harold E. Z'Punk' Good, 16, 801 Monroe St., died Monday at Swedish American Hospital following a short illness.

He was born Dec. 14, 1958, at Oregon, the son of Harold and Mevelene (Jackson) Good Jr., and would have been a junior at Oregon High School. Good, an honor student in school, was a member of East Oregon Chapel of the Church of God.

Survivors include his parents; three sisters, Mrs. Steven (Sharlene) Hartzell, Mrs. Joyce Hoffman and Mrs. Vickie Ludwick, all of Oregon; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Bessie Good, Oregon, and his maternal grandparents, Mrs. Geneva Madden, Oregon, and Delmus Jackson, Chana.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in Farrell Funeral Home with the Rev. Timothy New officiating. Burial will be in Chapel Hill Memorial Park, Dixon. Visitation will be Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the funeral home.

A memorial has been established to East Chapel of the Church of God.

William Faley

Funeral services for William Faley, 61, 211 E. Seventh St., who died Sunday at KSB Hospital, will be held Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. in Allen-Buckley Funeral Home and at 10 a.m. in St. Patrick's Catholic Church with the Rev. James Molloy officiating. Burial will be in Oakwood Cemetery where full military rites will be conducted. Visitation will be today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. at the funeral home where the rosary will be recited at 8 p.m.

A memorial has been established to St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Faley had been employed in the laundry department at Dixon State School for the past seven years and was previously employed at Borden Milk Factory.

Planners to meet

The Lee County Planning Commission will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the Courthouse.

Newspapers are for people who want to know what's going on but don't have all the time in the world to find out... and who need to choose their own time to read and find out.

Lung mobile exhibit will visit Dixon

The eradication of smoking-related diseases. The four-minute message presented in the exhibit emphasizes the dangers of smoking.

Since its debut in September, 1973, the exhibit has been viewed by more than 35,000 adults and children in 27 downstate Illinois counties. This will be the first time the program will be available in this area which is associated with the Sinissippi Lung Association.

The unit will be parked on East First Street, near Dixon Home Savings.

Illinois General Assembly Squabbling delays adjournment

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois General Assembly dragged on today, a last-minute squabble holding up the end of a six-month session filled with turmoil and disagreement.

As the session wore on past midnight and into the early morning hours, the leaders of the Democratic majority failed in their goal to wrap up their business before the end of the fiscal year.

House-Senate disagreements over budgets for the Department of Labor, the Capital Development Board, the State Fair and numerous boards and commissions thwarted adjournment plans.

Legislative leaders huddled in their offices to try to work out compromise agreements while rank-and-file members waited it out in the chambers.

Finally, both houses were recessed shortly before 5 a.m., and leaders said the session would be resumed at mid-afternoon.

Before the budget conflict developed, lawmakers tossed into Gov. Daniel Walker's lap the controversial question of budget cuts, giving him and a few other state officials the authority to impound up to 8 per cent of all appropriations out of the state's general revenue fund to guard against a deficit in the coming year.

Legislators also attacked several of Walker's pet agencies. A requested appropriation of $1.3 million for the Governor's Action Office was shelved. The $450,000 the governor requested for his Office of Special Investigations was left out of the budget entirely, and his $450,000 request for the Illinois Information Service was pruned to $250,000.

Also blocked was a bill which would have allowed parimutuel betting this summer at the Illinois State Fair and the DuQuoin State Fair, something Walker had wanted badly. Legislation approved earlier makes the betting legal beginning next year, but because of a technical error a separate measure was needed for an immediate change in the law.

But lawmakers approved new legislation on obscenity and a $19 million appropriation for textbooks for public and private schools.

The CDB measure bogged down when the House refused to agree to a Senate amendment which included $25 million for land acquisition for new office facilities in the capitol complex in Springfield. Some legislators said such a large amount was not needed because the state already owns most of the land surrounding the Capitol Building.

The State Fair bill became snarled when the House rejected a conference committee recommendation that the appropriation include money to pay some 265 firms that had provided services for last year's fair.

Some of the contractors had been identified by the state auditor general as having violated state contract procedures. Lawmakers could not agree on the amount of money that should go to the department's safety inspectors.

Walker, who had proposed a $10.8 billion budget in March, came back to the legislature in mid-June to request cuts.

He asked lawmakers to cut every budget out of the state's general revenue fund by 6 per cent, contending that the nation's recession had caused tax revenues to grow more slowly than expected and had produced a financial crisis in the state.

This proposal caused a storm of controversy. State aid to public schools, welfare payments, grants to community mental health centers and other politically-sensitive issues are involved in spending out of the general revenue fund.

Leaders of the Democratic majority in the legislature proposed the impoundment scheme. Originally it would have left entirely up to Walker the tough decisions of where to seek impoundments and whether the money could later be released if the economy improved.

The measure was later amended, however, to involve a legislative committee in the decision on whether to release any impounded funds.

Walker, however, is likely to reject the entire scheme. He already has used his veto power to cut several appropriations bills by the 6 per cent he requested and sent them back to the legislature.

Sponsors said the obscenity legislation was designed to protect businessmen who, under the current law, often were prosecuted for selling material they did not know was obscene.

The new measure would not allow the businessmen to be prosecuted unless the material already had been ruled obscene by a civil court.

Currently, a criminal court decides at the same time whether a given item is obscene and whether a defendant is guilty of selling it.

Other bills sent to the governor Monday included measures to:

—Permit school districts to increase property taxes to qualify for more state school aid unless citizens reject the tax increase at a referendum after it has been imposed.

—Increase the penalties for crimes committed with a weapon with "massive destructive effect" such as a sawed-off shotgun, bomb or grenade.

Judi Ford to serve as parade marshal at Compton Centennial

COMPTON — Former Miss Judi Ford, Miss America of 1969, is the parade marshal for the Century of Progress parade to be held July 13 as only a part of the Compton Centennial celebration.

The parade will begin at 2 p.m. A parade marshal trophy for the float best expressing the theme of the parade "Century of Progress," will be awarded. There are three float categories: Non-profit, commercial and friendship. A plaque will be awarded to the top float in those categories.

A plaque will also be presented to the best horse and rider in that division. Eight bands have already been scheduled that includes marching units and drum and bugle corps. Other units will include antique cars and tractors, walking and riding entries, floats, plus units from saddle and pony clubs. State Senator David Shapiro from Amboy and State Rep. Richard Mautino will also be appearing in the parade that promises to be the largest ever assembled in Compton. Nearly 100 entries have been received to date and there is still time to enter by contacting Mrs. Florschuetz at 497-2664.

No fireworks is promised, just a lot of entertainment for the 4th of July in Compton. This will be the last weekend of promenades, kangaroo court, and caravans for the pre-centennial celebration.

A community scramble picnic will begin at 5 p.m. in the village park.

There will be a tricycle, bicycle, and wagon decorating

POLLUTION VARIANCE
DAUBERT CHEMICAL CO.,
Dixon, Illinois (Lee County)

has filed with the Environmental Protection Agency and Pollution Control Board a Petition for Variance. Title IX of the Environmental Protection Act provides for individual variances upon proof by the petitioner that compliance with specific provisions of the Act, related regulations and/or Board Opinions would impose upon the Petitioner an "arbitrary or unreasonable hardship". The Petitioner alleges such a hardship, and requests a variance from hydrocarbon emission standards (Rule 205f) until February 1976.

The Environmental Protection Agency solicits the views of persons who might be adversely affected by the granting of the variance. Any comments or inquiries should be addressed to: Variance Section, Division of Air Pollution Control, Springfield, Illinois, 62706, (217-782-7326). Formal objections to the petition may be filed in writing with the Clerk of the Pollution Control Board, 309 W. Washington St., Chicago, Illinois, 60606.

I just received in the mail an application for "Senior Citizens and Disabled Persons Property Tax Relief" from the Department of Revenue. I applied for benefits under this program last year but did not receive a grant. Why did the Department send me a form again this year, and why would I bother to apply again?—Y.L.

Dear Mrs. L:

By all means, you should apply again for this tax relief program, known as the "circuit breaker." It doesn't matter that you applied last year and did not receive benefits. First of all, your income may have changed, making you eligible for cash benefits. Secondly, the formula for calculating the grants was expanded in 1974 to make more people eligible, including many who applied unsuccessfully before. Third, and perhaps most important, a new law passed and signed into law only last April make additional tax relief available to nearly every senior or disabled person in Illinois whose annual income is less than $10,000.

The Department of Revenue each year automatically mails application forms to those who filed for tax relief the previous year. Some 75,000 forms were sent to renters last February. About 170,000 forms are now being sent to home owners, to coincide with the arrival of local property tax bills. Of course, there are thousands of Illinois citizens who are eligible for these annual cash grants—now averaging about $200—but who don't automatically receive application forms in the mail. This is because they have never applied for the benefits, or don't even know they exist. It is extremely important, especially in these difficult economic times, that all those entitled to participate in this program do so at once. All seniors and disabled persons are urged to apply for "circuit breaker" tax relief as soon as possible, even though they may have applied unsuccessfully in the past. The law has been changed—to the advantage of the elderly and handicapped. Call the Senior Action Hotline for more information.

Are any state funds available to senior organizations or community projects for the purchase of mini-buses or other transportation facilities for the elderly? We live in a rural area, and transportation is a big problem.—C.J.

Dear Mrs. J:

The state Department of Transportation makes funds available every year to local non-profit agencies for the purchase of special transportation vehicles for the elderly and handicapped. This program is known as the "Mass Transportation Capital Grant Program." The state Department of Transportation accepts applications from interested agencies and in turn submits an application to the federal government for approval. In the current year, the state proposes to fund about 25 projects in all parts of the state through such groups as Community Action Agencies, Councils on Aging, the Salvation Army, Red Cross and others. In several instances, two and three community organizations have joined to seek sponsorship of such a program.

This year about $1 million will be spent on the purchase of special equipment—including vehicles with hydraulic lifts—through this program. The federal government will supply 80 per cent of the cost, the state will pick up about 15 per cent of the cost, and the remainder will come from local sources.

It is also possible to receive money for the purchase of buses and vans through the 13 Area Agencies on Aging in Illinois. Area Agencies are now funding more than two dozen transportation programs for the elderly, and some have also made special one-time grants for the purchase of individual buses or vans. Local governments may also spend revenue sharing money on senior transportation programs. Contact the Area Agency on Aging nearest you, or write the Ill. Department of Transportation, Division of Public Transportation, Room 1002, 300 N. State St., Chicago, 60610.

Are disabled property owners eligible for the Homestead Exemption reduction in property taxes?—R.S.

Dear Miss S:

The Homestead Exemption, under current law, is limited to property-tax payers aged 65 or older. The disabled are not now included in this program, which allows a $1,500 reduction in equalized assessed valuation—or a tax savings of $70 to $100. The law could be amended at some time in the future to cover disabled persons, but that would require action by the legislature. However, handicapped home owners and renters whose annual incomes are less than $10,000 are eligible for tax relief under the "circuit breaker" and accompanying "sales tax relief" program.

Persons may call the toll-free Senior Action Hotline 800-252-6565 with questions or complaints about government agencies or programs or for information about tax relief, health care, food stamps, Social Security, employment, housing or legal aid.

In Dixon persons may call the Lee County Council for Aging 288-2117.

Ali decisions Bugner, calls off retirement plans

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)— "People want to see me fight Joe Frazier," says Muhammad Ali, fresh out of retirement and off a unanimous decision victory over Joe Bugner.

Neither the victory here Tuesday morning nor the change of mind about retirement were surprises.

The rubber match between the two rivals will be held in Manila, probably Oct. 1. It will be history's richest fight, with total purse money of $12 million. Ali got $2 million Tuesday.

"I don't want anybody to say that I'm afraid of Joe Frazier or George Foreman," Ali said before his victory over Bugner.

"If I quit, people will say that Joe Frazier would have whipped me," said Ali, who had announced plans to retire June 23. "They would say that Foreman and Ken Norton would too. So, when I retire I don't want anybody around who people might think could beat me."

"I'm ready," said Frazier, who was at ringside. "I am happy that he decided not to go out, otherwise I would have thought he was ducking me like he's been doing for the last year."

Frazier defeated Ali when neither was champion.

Frazier then joined the king of Malaysia and an announced estimated crowd of 22,000 to watch the 33-year-old champion dominate Bugner, 25, in the event that was the ring at the outdoor Merdeka Stadium.

The heat was bad but it was bad for both of us," said Ali, who had predicted that Bugner would be a world champion after he defeated the Briton on a 12-round decision two years ago.

"I still predict that Joe Bugner will be champion," said Ali. "He's strong, he's young."

"I should have won the world title," said Bugner, who does claim the heavyweight championship of Europe. "I think the climate beat me this time. I just couldn't find a burst of energy to maintain the pressure by the 10th and 11th rounds."

A Malaysian communications official placed the temperature in the ring at more than 100 degrees.

Ali threw bits and pieces of his rope-fighting technique and his dancing at Bugner. But the champion's main strategy was to rush Bugner, push him into the rope and gun for his head.

Ali was unable to knock down his opponent, but he came close in the final round. Late in the round, Ali backed Bugner up with a sharp right-left, right-left. He then hurt him with two lefts and a right and just before the bell had him reeling with about seven straight punches to the head.

The champion also appeared to have Bugner dazed in the 13th and 14th rounds. Ali finished the fight with a nick over his left eye suffered in the 13th round, and Bugner had a swelling under his right eye.

Referee Takeo Ugo of Japan scored it 73-67 for Ali. Judge Lt. Col. Suthee Phrom Jara of Thailand scored it 73-65 and Ken Brady of Australia 72-65 for Ali.

The Associated Press favored the champion 70-65.

Dukes lose 10-5

By JIM FOX
Telegraph Sports Writer

ROCK FALLS— Rock Falls pounded out 17 base-hits as the Legion team defeated the Dixon Dukes 10-5, here, Monday evening in non-conference competition. Gregg Mullery was the victim of Rock Falls heavy hitting, while Jack Fox picked up the win.

Dixon blew a chance to take an early lead in the first inning as the Dukes loaded the bases with one out. Two pop ups ended the threat with no Dixon runner crossing the plate.

Rock Falls scored the initial run of the game in the second inning. Tim Fiorini, Tim Lengfelter and Tim Cairns hit consecutive singles to produce a 1-0 lead.

Dixon knotted the game in the visitor's half of the third. After John Blackburn walked, Doug Devine and Vince Melendrez singled, with Melendrez's hit chasing Blackburn home. Melendrez, who has five hits in his last two games, has raised his average from a lowly .090 to .222.

A Tim Licocci single, Ron Newlon double, two Duke errors and a Dan Garman sacrifice fly gave Rock Falls a 4-1 lead after three innings. After the lone run in the second, Fox allowed Dixon no runs until the sixth.

A four-run fourth knocked Mullery from the mound and brought in Greg Dogwiler. Mullery hurled three-plus innings and gave up 12 hits and eight runs.

Dogwiler looked good in relief as the righthander allowed only two runs on five hits in his five innings of work. But Dixon, collecting nine hits in the loss, was not able to catch the large Legion lead.

The Dukes chipped away with one run in the sixth on an RBI single off the bat of John Kemp that scored Melendrez. Dixon pushed its last tallies across in the eighth with a little help from the Rock Falls infield.

Irwin captures Western

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Hale Irwin, an articulate, intelligent young man with a way of getting to the heart of the matter, had a simple explanation for his victory in the $200,000 Western Open Golf Tournament.

"I just didn't make as many mistakes as the other guys," Irwin said after his one-stroke triumph Monday in what he called "the most nerve-wracking experience of my life."

And that's just exactly what happened.

Irwin, who has that happy habit of winning on the game's most difficult courses, let Butler National chew up the rest of the field — he was the only one to break par for 72 holes — and won it with a closing string of 13 consecutive pars.

"Pars," observed Irwin, "are hard to beat."

George Johnson, who led most of the long, hot, muggy day, and South African Bobby Cole, the man Irwin had to beat in the end, discovered the truth of that statement.

Johnson, who once had a four-stroke lead, blew it and built it back to three, finally played his last three holes six over par. Cole lost a tie for the lead with a bogey on the last hole.

Irwin won his second title of the season with scores of 71 and 73 in the double-round windup that was forced when a violent, dangerous thunderstorm washed out Friday's round and sent three lightning-jolted players to the hospital.

One of them, Jerry Heard, returned to action when the hospital released him, put together closing rounds of 72 and 73 and claimed a tie for fourth at 288.

The other two, Lee Trevino and Bobby Nichols, went home after a two-day stay in the hospital.

Irwin, who relinquished his U.S. Open title just a few days ago, won this one with a 283 total.

Reds get overtime victory

Bench's homer nips Astros

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds are working overtime these days and they're turning Riverfront Stadium into a sweatshop for opposing relief pitchers.

Johnny Bench was the whip-cracker Monday night with a three-run homer in the 12th inning that gave the Reds a 9-6 triumph over the Houston Astros. Last Friday, Dan Driessen belted a three-run homer in the 11th inning to defeat San Diego and Saturday George Foster cracked a two-run shot in the 10th to beat the Padres.

The Reds trailed Houston 6-2 but scored three times in the eighth on Ken Griffey's bases-loaded triple and tied it in the ninth on pinch hitter Bill Plummer's sacrifice fly. Joe Niekro retired the first two Cincinnati batters in the 12th but Griffey doubled, Joe Morgan walked and Bench followed with his 16th home run.

The Reds celebrated Riverfront Stadium's fifth anniversary by extending their major league record to 15 consecutive errorless games and setting a club record with their 21st triumph in the month of June. They lost seven times.

Dodgers 4, Padres 1

Ron Cey drove in two runs with a homer and three-run single and Andy Messersmith hurled a six-hitter to become the NL's first 12-game winner. Cey stroked a two-run single in the first inning and led off the sixth with his 12th home run of the season. Messersmith had a one-hitter until the Padres scored in the seventh on singles by Gene Locklear, Dave Winfield and Randy Hundley.

Pirates 5, Expos 3

Pitcher Larry Demery tripled and scored Pittsburgh's first run and Richie Zisk homered. Demery allowed three hits in seven innings before leaving with a bruised shin and Zisk left the game in the seventh after injuring his right index finger on a force play. The Pirates scored three decisive runs in the ninth on Rennie Stennett's RBI single, a bases-loaded walk and Al Oliver's sacrifice fly.

Cardinals 4, Phillies 2

Mike Tyson drove in two St. Louis runs with a double and single and relief ace Al Hrabosky pitched two hitless innings and struck out three after Bob Forsch held the Phils to seven hits, including home runs by Mike Schmidt and Dave Cash. Ted Simmons and Ken Reitz also had run-scoring singles for the Cards.

Mets 5, Cubs 1

George Stone scattered eight hits and allowed one unearned run in pitching his first complete game since May 21, 1974, and Rusty Staub triggered a tie-breaking four-run eighth inning with a run-scoring single. Ed Kranepool, Jerry Grote and Stone all followed with run-scoring hits.

American League

Frank Tanana and Nolan Ryan came from different sides of the mound but batters will tell you that they both come to the plate the same way — too fast.

Tanana successfully served his speedy specialty at the Minnesota Twins Monday night, striking out 15 to raise his season total to 10-8, second only to Ryan, his California Angels teammate.

"I don't learn too much from Nolan Ryan," Tanana said after the Angels beat the Twins 10-3 to put the brakes on a seven-game losing streak. "We come from different sides because I'm a left-hander and he's right-hander."

In striking out 15 Twins, Tanana was just two short of the American League record for strikeouts in his last three games, which ties an American League record for left-handers.

The Angels played a speed game of their own, roughing up Minnesota starter Ray Corbin as fast as possible. Leadoff batter Morris Nettles singled, touching off five more consecutive hits, capped by John Doherty's three-run homer, which knocked Corbin out of the game.

Red Sox 5-2, Orioles 2-8

Boston's Luis Tiant and Baltimore's Jim Palmer pitched in different games of the double-header because each team wanted a sure victory. They each got a victory, but not the sure one.

Dick Pole outpitched Palmer, 12-5, in the opener, blanking the Orioles for eight innings before he was struck in the face by a line drive. Pole suffered a fractured cheekbone and will be lost "for a period of weeks."

In the second game Jim Northrup's two-run homer and Dave Duncan's record-matching fourth double of the game highlighted a four-run eighth inning that helped snap Tiant's four-game winning streak.

Brewers 5, Yankees 4

Bobby Darwin's pinch hit two-run homer lifted Milwaukee over New York and pulled the Brewers within one game of the second-place Yankees, who trail East Division-leading Boston by one game.

Chris Chambliss had put the Yankees on top 4-3 with a two-run homer in the ninth but Sixto Lezcano beat out an infield hit and Darwin ended the game with his eighth homer of the year.

Indians 4-3, Tigers 1-2

Rick Manning backed Eric Raich's five-hit pitching with a two-run single in the eighth that gave the Indians a sweep of their doubleheader.

In the opener, the Tigers backed the seven-hit pitching of Cleveland's Roric Harrison by committing six errors and allowing three unearned runs.

Wermers 4, Marine Corps 3

Wermers turned over on a double play in the final inning to strand the tying run and raise its record to 8-1. Tim Oswalt struck out 11 and walked only one while giving up three hits for his fifth win of the season. Paul Kibble and Mike Wiltz had two hits each for the winners, with Brian Cunningham adding a double. Marty Eccles hit a triple and single for the Marine Corps (6-3).

ELROY LAUER

Sublette man receives District Director Award

AMBOY — Elroy Lauer, Sublette, has been chosen the outstanding district director for the six-county Northern Illinois Land Use Council. Lauer is chairman of the Lee County Soil and Water Conservation District and is winner over entries from Carroll, Ogle, JoDaviess, Stephenson, and Whiteside Counties.

Lauer's 504-acre farming operation is an outstanding show place for modern soil and water conservation practices. The contoured and terraced fields are tilled with the multi-row four-wheel drive equipment. The dairy herd utilizes forage crops from the steeper land and the grain handling system dries, stores, and moves the row crop production to market. The Douglas fir windbreak protects a modernized farm home for 11 children, ages 9 to 22, and all are living at home.

His public service record (unpaid) is outstanding. He has been a director of the Lee County SWCD for over 20 years and has served as Chairman for 12 years. He is presently chairman of the Lee County Regional Planning Commission, county representative to the North West Council of Public Officials, treasurer of the Northern Illinois Land Use Council, secretary of the Lee County Community Resource Development Council, a member of the Blackhawk Hills RC&D, and a past chairman of the Lee County Cooperative Extension Council.

He has played a vital role in bringing about the upcoming soil survey for Lee County. His quiet manner, thorough preparation, fair but firm leadership, and donation of untold hours and miles, has earned him the respect of all those who work with him.

Farmers protest B&O rail abandonment

The Illinois Farm Bureau and its farm supply and grain cooperative affiliates are protesting abandonment of 352 miles of Baltimore & Ohio Railroad track in the southern half of the state and have requested a public hearing by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The proposed abandonments affect two segments of B&O service in Illinois. One segment is 228 miles of track from Beardstown on the Illinois River to Shawneetown on the Ohio River, running through the counties of Cass, Sangamon, Christian, Shelby, Effingham, Clay, Wayne, White, and Gallatin. The other segment is 124 miles of track from Decatur to Indianapolis, Ind., running through the Illinois counties of Macon, Piatt, Douglas, and Edgar.

The ICC by Robert L. Graves, director of transportation for FS Services, Inc., Illinois Grain Corporation, and the Illinois Farm Bureau. Graves also filed another protest on behalf of the B&O Concerned Citizens Committee which he serves as chairman. This committee was formed out of a group of 65 persons who met in Altamont in mid-May to discuss the effect that abandonment would have on shippers using the rail service.

Serving on the committee with Graves are David J. Conlon, vice chairman, manager of the Pierson Grain and Supply Co., Pierson Station; Wally Beattie, secretary-treasurer, manager of Mid-Illinois Farmers Cooperative, Owanecko; and the following committee members: Jack Davidson, traffic manager, Tabor & Co., Decatur grain merchandising firm; C. A. French, president of the Wayne County Bank and Trust Co., Fairfield; Glenn R. Heiserman, manager of the LaPlace Cooperative Grain Co.; Herman O. Homann, owner, Homann Grain and Supply, Altamont; and E. V. Kierman, merchandiser, Pillsbury Co., Springfield.

Graves said June 16 was the deadline for filing of protests and he is hopeful that the ICC will schedule a public hearing within 60 days. The protesting organizations have asked that such hearing be held in either Tuscola or Effingham.

Colwell attends Co-op conference

Bob Colwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Colwell, Rt. 1, Franklin Grove, attended CO-OP Youth Leadership Conference on the campus of William Jewell College in Liberty, Missouri. Bob was among 900 outstanding rural youth who attended one of the four conferences on June 23-28. Bob was sponsored to the conference by Farmland Industries.

During the week delegates are involved in group discussion workshops and cooperative training sessions. The conference delegates operate their own cooperative. This gives delegates a first-hand look at how a cooperative works and responsibilities of the manager, director, employee, and member. There is also time for swimming, parties, and relaxation throughout the week. Each conference delegate has an important job at CO-OP Youth Conference activities.

The conferences are sponsored each year by Farmland Industries of Kansas City, Mo. Farmland Industries is a regional cooperative manufacturing and distributing petroleum, feed, fertilizer, and farm supplies. Farmland is owned by 2,000 local cooperatives. The local cooperatives sponsor most of the conference delegates.

Wheat and oat losses discussed

By M. T. BARLASS
Lee Co. Extension Adciser

The combines will soon be rolling in wheat fields and before long the oats will be ready to go. Oats and wheat are relatively easy to harvest. So, with normal harvesting conditions, you should have little crop loss. But you should understand the sources and causes of grain loss, know the adjustments needed to reduce losses, and know how to make those adjustments in the field.

You might as well get all the grain you can while you're at it. Let's take a look at the major causes of combine losses.

Header loss may be caused by any of all of the following items: Grain heads missed by the cutter bar; grain shattered out of the head as the knife cuts the straw; grain cut and dropped to the ground before reaching the feeding platform; grain shattered out when the reel strikes the standing wheat; and grain heads thrown out by the reel.

Cylinder loss occurs when unshelled grain is left in the heads and carried out the back of the combine on the straw rack, or when cracked grain appears in the grain tank. Cracked grain is caused by the cylinder running too fast or by the concave-cylinder clearance being too close.

Rack loss is shelled grain that is carried out of the machine with the straw over the rack. Shoe loss is grain that is carried over the rear of the sieves with the chaff or blown out of the combine by the fan. Losses, with the best combine adjustments, will vary greatly depending upon the variety and condition of the wheat crop. Total losses in clean crops of wheat will vary from approximately one per cent to four per cent of the total yield.

Under good harvesting conditions, the total loss should be less than 1.5 per cent of the yield or less than approximately one bushel per acre. Field surveys show that wheat losses range from less than 0.1 to 6.5 bushels per acre.

Here are some tips for reducing harvest loss:

—Header losses are often the highest. Height of cut should be low enough to get all or most of the heads, but not too low. If the cutting height is too low, too much material will run through the combine increasing rack loss.

—Combine engine speed is probably the most important single item to check to reduce header loss. The operator's manual will list the proper speed of the engine or of the cylinder beater shaft in revolutions per minute at no load, fast idle. Use of a tachometer is necessary to do this. If you are not certain of the procedure for adjusting maximum engine speed, have the work done by your local dealer. Don't guess at it.

—Ground speed should not be changed by using the speed control lever. The engine should always run at full speed.

—Check the owner's manual for proper chaffer and sieve settings and air blast adjustment for cleaning. Proper settings will reduce shoe loss.

"Aw, gee, Dad! Just because I wear an earring, you don't have to wear one, too!"

The Doctor says:

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I need some help for an iron deficiency or iron poor blood. Some doctors call it a low blood count when they sample blood from the finger.

I'm 35, female, 5 feet 4 inches, and weigh 140 pounds. To the best of my knowledge I am in excellent health except for iron poor blood. I have had this condition for the last 16 years. Is this something I will have to live with?

I have very little energy, stay tired and lifeless much of the time. I have nothing like the energy I should have for a woman my age. I have to push myself to do my housework. Iron capsules help greatly, but they cause me to have an enormous appetite. If I were to continue taking them regularly I would gain several pounds which I do not want or need. I do not eat very many red meats, so-called blood builders. Sometimes I eat red meats and take iron capsules just long enough to get to feeling well. I feel fine for about three weeks until it is time for my menstrual period, then it starts all over again.

What would cause me to have iron poor blood? Is there an organ in my body that does not function properly? What should I do to build my blood and restore the necessary iron?

DEAR READER — There are many causes for that old tired feeling and iron deficiency is only one. Before expecting too much from taking iron, you should let your doctor decide whether that is really your problem.

Iron deficiency anemia is common throughout the world, but it occurs in modern industrialized nations in women of the childbearing age, and is commonly attributed to recurrent loss of blood from menstruation, so you are in the right age group.

Persistent blood loss from any location can induce iron deficiency because of loss of iron in the red blood cells. A person bleeding from the digestive tract or persistent loss of blood from hemorrhoids may become iron deficient.

You need iron for all the cells of the body. It is necessary to form hemoglobin in the red blood cells to carry oxygen. You need the oxygen to break down your food in the cells and release food energy. Failure to do this leads to fatigue. Iron is an important part of enzymes in the cell used to accomplish the breakdown. Without adequate iron, the bone marrow slows down and quits forming enough red blood cells. Those that are formed may be lacking in adequate amounts of iron.

Women between the ages of 11 through the menopause need about 18 milligrams of iron in the diet each day. Even if it does stimulate your appetite, feeling better often leads to eating better.

When iron pots were commonly used for cooking, they were a major source of iron in food. Modern utensils have eliminated this important source. Liver is a good source of iron.
